

SAVED HER FROM RUIN

Policeman Rescues 12-Year-Old Gertrude Schultz.

Was with Ice-Boat Capt. Post on the Bowery at Midnight.

The Two Were Looking for Lodgings When Arrested.

Through the kindness of Police Officer Gassman, of the East Fifth street police station, little twelve-year-old Gertrude Schultz, living with her mother and stepfather, James Bussey, at 361-1/2 East Eighth street, was rescued from ruin last night.

The policeman noticed the girl, accompanied by a middle-aged, fairly well-dressed man, enter the Eagle Hotel, at Sixth street and the Bowery, shortly before midnight, and come out again hurriedly. The clerk of the hotel told Gassman that the man had tried to engage a room for the night, but his patronage had been declined.

Following the couple down the Bowery, the policeman joined them just as they were entering another hotel at No. 355.

In reply to questions the man said he was Charles Schultz, the captain of an ice-boat, and that the girl was his daughter, Annie. They had been to the theatre together, and as the boat, lying at the foot of East Seventy-ninth street, was to leave at 3 A. M. for up the river, he thought he would sleep downtown and go up to the boat early in the morning.

The girl corroborated the man's statement, and volunteered the fact that her mother and two brothers were on the boat. The story told by the two seemed to be all right until the officer asked the name of the boat and where she was lying. This the girl was unable to tell.

The officer took the couple to the East Fifth street station, where the man and the girl repeated their story about being father and daughter.

Under close questioning by Capt. Cross the man admitted that his right name was Edwin Post, thirty-eight years old, captain of the ice-boat "Tiger," lying at the foot of East Seventy-ninth street, and that the girl was Gertrude Schultz, of 361-1/2 East Eighth street.

He said the girl had been coming for ice to his boat for some time, and, taking a fancy to her, he had escorted her to the theatre. As it was so late he had thought it better to let her sleep downtown.

The girl said that after the theatre was over, Post told her to come with him and he would give her a nice time.

Post has a wife and two sons, one fourteen and the other seven years of age, at making their home with him on the boat.

Post was held in $100 bonds on a charge of abduction in Essex Market Police Court, by Justice Koch, this morning, and the girl was given into the care of the Society.

The Society officials say that the girl has not been harmed; she had lost a great deal of her assurance of late, but this morning and cried freely while in court.

CROKER RESIGNS ONCE MORE.

This Time It Is from the Manhattan Club.

President Coudert Says the Ex-Boss Will Be Allowed to Go.

Richard Croker, ex-Boss of Tammany Hall, is a very much "resigned" man. He has "resigned" as political king of this city, refused to qualify as a sachem of the Tammany Society, and resigned also as a member of the General Committee of Tammany Hall. All this was known before Mr. Croker went abroad "for his health."

But he has resigned other things, too, and the amount of "resignation" he has in stock may not yet be totally exhausted.

It has just become known that when Mr. Croker decided to resign he intended his resignation as a member of the Manhattan Club, and sent it to Frederick R. Coudert, President of the Club. This resignation was dated June 8, the day Mr. Croker's friends decided that his health was bad, but Mr. Coudert did not receive it until Mr. Croker was well out at sea. The document was worded as follows:

No. 2 East Seventy-fourth street, June 8, 1894.

Frederick R. Coudert, Esq., President, Manhattan Club, New York City.

Dear Sir: Please accept my resignation as a member of the Manhattan Club, in accordance with the by-laws of the Club.

Yours truly, RICHARD CROKER.

The resignation will be accepted at once, according to Mr. Coudert.

And this is not all. It was reported among Tammany politicians to-day that Mr. Croker has also resigned as a member of the Twenty-first District organization, and consequently could not have resigned a membership.

There are a few things left for Mr. Croker.

Police Commissioner Martin, however, says: "Mr. Croker never was a member of the Twenty-first District organization, and consequently could not have resigned a membership."

HUNTING FOR A MURDERER.

Nicolo Presetto Butchers His Father-in-Law.

The Slayer Flees to a Roof and Disappears as if by Magic.

Although Ward Detectives Smith and Mooney and ten policemen of East One Hundred and Fourth street station have been searching all night for Nicolo Presetto, of 435 East One Hundred and Twelfth street, who stabbed his father-in-law to death last night, no trace of the wanderer's whereabouts has yet been discovered.

After he saw that his victim, Charles A. Brown, was dying from the terrible stab wounds in the back and abdomen, Presetto escaped to the roof, and eventually descended to the street through a neighboring skylight.

Detectives Smith and Mooney at once searched all the houses in the block, but nowhere could they find a trace of the fierce Italian.

Policemen were stationed on the streets of the block, and yet the murderer had disappeared as completely as though a balloon had carried him away.

From their experience with Italian criminals the detectives are confident that Presetto is hiding in some Italian quarter of the city.

The ward men went to Mulberry Bend shortly before midnight, but diligent search after the murderer during the remainder of the night proved fruitless.

The immediate cause of the crime was a proposed voyage to Germany of Presetto's wife and her father. The trip was finally decided upon a few days ago, when, through the death of a relative in Germany, Brown came into $10,000.

Brown and his daughter came to this country ten years ago. Annie married a baker, and became a widow two years ago. Three months ago Presetto made violent love to her, and proposed marriage. Although Presetto, an Italian, was almost to Brown as a son-in-law, his daughter accepted the offer, and the marriage took place March 11 at the City Hall.

Previous to her marriage to Presetto Annie had been living with Romeo Scipio, who is the reputed father of a child born to her two months after her marriage to Presetto. Presetto condoned his wife's wrong, and consented to live with her if she put the child in an institution.

It was learned by the police this morning that the intended secret flight to Germany of Brown and his daughter was not the only cause of the butchery.

Presetto was of a very jealous disposition. The memory of his wife's relation with Scipio rankled in his breast. Rumors that Scipio had been paying visits to his wife came to his ears, and aggravated the rage of the husband.

When he returned from home last night and saw his wife making preparations to leave Presetto became a raving maniac.

It was then that he seized the knife and committed the murderous assault. No trace of the knife has yet been found.

Village Swept Away by Flood.

(By Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Ore., June 14.—It is reported that almost the entire village of Grants, in Sherman County, has been swept away by the flood.

It is said that only the elevator and a few buildings on the highest remain. Grants had a population of about two hundred, and is located on the Columbia River, on the Oregon Pacific Railroad, 111 miles east of Portland.

"I was discouraged, broken-hearted. I was so ill with female trouble I could not walk or stand, and had to be assisted to my feet when arising from a chair."

"My head whirled, and back ached, but worst of all was that crowding-down feeling in my abdomen."

"A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her faith won mine, and now I am well. Oh! how can I return thanks to Mrs. Pinkham!"

Policeman Broke His Arm in Trying to Jump on an Ambulance.

It is a sad bit of irony that Roundman John D. Sullivan, of the Grand Central Station Squad, and Demetrius Blackos, a Greek boy, of 89 Third avenue, are in Flower Hospital, since a basket of flowers was largely instrumental in landing them there.

The flowers belonged to Demetrius. He had a large, blooming, odorous basket of them, and was riding on the front platform of a Forty-second street car at 7 o'clock this morning.

In crossing Vanderbilt avenue the boy attempted to alight, but, hampered by the basket, he fell and the front wheel passed over and crushed his foot.

A call was sent to the Flower Hospital and an ambulance responded. Roundman Sullivan saw the vehicle and ran effort he, too, fell and the bones of his right arm were fractured.

The ambulance was stopped to pick up the policeman, and they rushed on to where the suffering boy lay among the wreck of his flowers. Both patients were taken away together.
